Vancouverism

Larry Beasley

RELEASED 2019 PAGES 384 RIGHTS AVAILABLE WORLD EXCL. NA

This book tells the story of "Vancouverism" and the urban planning philosophy and practice behind it. Larry Beasley, the former chief planner of the City of Vancouver and the key player at the heart of the action, traces the principles that inspired Vancouverism and the policy framework developed to implement it.

Indigenous Women and Feminism: Politics, Activism, Culture

EDITED BY Cheryl Suzack, Shari M. Huhndorf, Jeanne Perreault, Jean Barman

RELEASED 2010 PAGES 344 RIGHTS AVAILABLE WORLD EXCL. NA

Through the lenses of politics, activism, and culture, this wide-ranging collection examines the historical roles of Indigenous women, their intellectual and activist work, and the relevance of contemporary literature, art, and performance for an emerging Indigenous feminist project. The question at the heart of these essays: what is at stake in conceptualizing Indigenous feminism?

Rethinking the Spectacle:

Guy Debord, Radical Democracy, and the Digital Age

Devin Penner

RELEASED 2019 PAGES 220 RIGHTS AVAILABLE WORLD EXCL. CANADA

This book brings together the ideas of Debord and the Situationist International to examine the tension between spectacles and political agency in our hyper-mediated digital society. It argues that spectacles are a necessary means to persuade, prod, and mobilize the public, but we must not assume that audiences are passive consumers. Spectacles must enhance rather than replace democratic dialogue.
